Chinas Economic Security:

China's Economic Security Werner Draguhn, Robert Ash, 1999 Since the end of the Cold War economic security has become the key issue for regional stability This high level survey of China s key priorities in this area contains contributions from international specialists on all the vital issues The collection is an essential guide and reference to the regional issues which are global in implication and anticipate some of the major shifts likely to take place in the 21st century

China's Integration in Asia Robert Ash, 2013-12-16 A collection of authoritative papers on key issues for China s relations with other countries in the region in terms of trade defence regional development energy security and social political and economic development

Crafting Economic Security In The Indo-pacific Region: Concepts, Practices And New Dynamics Alex Chien-wu Hsueh, Masahiro Matsumura, Alan Hao Yang, 2025-09-19 This book addresses the up to date development and changing features of Economic Security It corroborates with the concepts policies and dynamics in the Indo Pacific region This book argues that economic security is an important component of national security albeit it shall go beyond the narrowly defined national security which mainly focuses on military security and national defense The central argument of this book identifies at least two forms of transcendence of contemporary economic security The first transcendence is the transcendence beyond the narrow definitions and limited components while the second one prioritizes the transcendence beyond the level of analysis the domestic level in particular Securing economic security is not only a concern of the government at the national level but also a major consideration for regional connectivity and its spill over impact at the international level as well as the maintenance of livelihoods of local society communities and people at the grassroot level This book demonstrates the joint efforts of transnational scholarship addressing the up to date development and dynamics of economic security in the Indo Pacific region through the lens of interdisciplinary perspectives The contributors of this book include scholars such as leading senior professors of international politics international political economy economics anthropology Southeast Asian Studies research fellows and practitioners such as a lawyer and a CEO of a start up enterprise on green energy and carbon solution foreign policy think tankers technology think tankers cyber security expert and a diplomat former foreign policy officer from India The book contests against two myths The first is that economic security is exclusively state centric This book agrees that the security referent of economic security is mainly the state that is the government Nevertheless this book argues that the referents should be more than the government by advocating that economic security is also tied up with the international community especially for the regional communities based on common strategic goals and shared interests Besides additional referents to economic security should include private sector actors such as enterprises and companies and people sectors such as civil society local communities and people The second is to address the new dynamics of the economic security imposed by the strategic currents such as the US China trade war or Russo Ukraine War which triggered the international attention over economic security that is narrowly

defined as the crisis for semiconductor chips supply chain resilience Economic Security and Sino-American Relations Kenneth Boutin, 2019 China and the United States have reached a crossroads where their economic relationship is concerned as the shared interest in economic prosperity and complementary economic strengths that provide the common ground of industrial collaboration are threatened by increasing attention to economic facets of national security This trend is encouraging policies which potentially undermine the basis of Sino American industrial integration This book explores the basis nature and impact of evolving economic security agendas in the United States and China Globalisation and Economic Security in East Asia Helen Sharmini Nesadurai, 2006 What is the relationship between globalization and economic security Globalisation and Economic Security in East Asia is an incisive new engagement with this important question that uses detailed conceptual exploration and fresh empirical analysis Viewing traditional neorealist conceptions of economic security as overly narrow this new study suggests that any conception of economic security in the contemporary era needs to also pay close attention to the nature of global capitalism and the insecurities it generates for societies and individuals This uniquely open ended approach to conceptualizing economic security is supported by the East Asian experience The country case studies included here reveal that while economic security has largely been posed as one of ensuring sustainable economic growth and equitable social development particularly following the 1997 to 1998 Asian financial crisis other more realist conceptions of economic security have not become irrelevant This is also an exploration of whether and how national regional and multilateral institutions as well as non state regional mechanisms help policy makers meet the task of governing in the interests of economic security This book will be of great interest to all students and scholars of international relations international political economy of East Asia globalization and security studies
