

HIV and AIDS

What is HIV?

HIV stands for Human Immunodeficiency Virus. The virus attacks the body's immune (defence) system. Most people who are infected with the virus go on to develop AIDS but people can have HIV for years without having AIDS.

People with HIV use highly active antiretroviral medicines which help control the levels of the virus in the body but there is no cure.

Regularly taking HIV will help you to lower your HIV virus. This will allow you to get treatment to control your health and ensure that you don't spread the virus to others.

HIV is found in body fluids. It is mainly passed on through unprotected sex. You can also get the virus by sharing needles and from mother to child during breastfeeding.

You can catch HIV by just being near someone through coughing, sneezing, hugging, kissing or from a toilet seat.

What is AIDS?

AIDS stands for Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome. AIDS is the last stage of the HIV infection when the body's immune system is seriously damaged.

How do people test for HIV and AIDS?

There are only three ways to get HIV and AIDS:

- an infected person
- contact between your blood and infected blood or blood-containing material (e.g. fluids)
- mother to child transmission

AIDS moves through four different stages

- 1 Stage one: the person is infected but doesn't have any symptoms, except for some swollen lymphatic nodes in the lymphatic system. They don't feel well or look unwell. They can live for several years, during which the person might have no symptoms at all.
- 2 Stage two: the person starts getting other illnesses such as more infections, frequent flu and other problems.
- 3 Stage three: the person may start losing a lot of weight and get ill for longer stretches of time. Illnesses such as mouth ulcers, pneumonia or lung disease may start to occur.
- 4 Stage four: the person is very ill due to a very weak immune system. Illnesses such as pneumonia, lung infections, lymphomas and meningitis are common in these patients. Patients at this stage are considered to have AIDS if their white blood cell count goes below 350 (normal cell count is between 500 to 1000).

How Do You Treat HIV and AIDS?

HIV can be treated but people can live for many years with proper medical care. Antiretroviral medications can greatly reduce the level of HIV in the body when they are taken properly.

The type of medicines used to treat HIV is important to the patient's body as it is very important that people discover they are positive as quickly as possible so that they can start taking medication. People who have advanced treatments will live longer for their whole lives.

Did You Know...?

HIV does not spread through other infections that are usually easy to control from, like pneumonia and diarrhoea, and other respiratory illnesses. HIV patients die as a result of other infections.

Treatment and Support

If you have tested positive for HIV it is very important that you visit your doctor and start with correct treatment as soon as possible. Taking this medication is the only way to manage the disease. The virus will be in your body and its immune system. With treatment, people living with HIV can live long and healthy lives.

Rights of people with HIV and AIDS

People living with HIV and AIDS have the same rights as other South Africans.

People with HIV and AIDS should not be discriminated against and should be able to get jobs, have access to medical care and education.

We can also be treated to take an HIV test if we wish to.
