Corn G. E. Inglett, 1970 Food Protein Sources N. W. Pirie, Monkombu Sambasivan Swaminathan, 1975

Special attention is given to sources from which food protein could be made by simple techniques in regions where protein deficiency is acute
Also covered are quality control and the acceptability of novel foods Nutritional Evaluation of Food Processing Endel Karmas, Robert S. Harris, 2012-12-06
Dramatic changes in the attitudes toward human nutrition have taken place during the past decade
Food related and medical professionals as well as consumers are now more than ever before aware of and concerned about diet nutrition and the beneficial and deleterious effects of food processing upon nutrients
The old saying We are what we eat is still relevant
Nutritious food will contribute greatly to consumers good health and ultimately reduce medical bills
Food processing is essential to maintaining our food reserves from one harvest to another thus letting us serve our daily meals regularly
If food processing is defined as including all treatments of foodstuffs from harvest to consumption then more than 95% of our food may be considered as processed
In most cases food processing and storage cause some reduction in the nutritional value of foods
Advances in food science and food technology have resulted in an increase in nutrient retention after processing
In addition today's consumer better understands how to avoid excessive nutrient losses during food preparation
The information presented in this completely revised reference and textbook will help the reader to understand better the relationship between food processing and nutrient retention
