Documenting the Documentary Barry Keith Grant, Jeannette Sloniowski, 2013-12-16 Essays on important documentary films from a wide range of critical and theoretical perspectives

Documenting the Documentary features essays by 27 film scholars from a wide range of critical and theoretical perspectives Each essay focuses on one or two important documentaries engaging in questions surrounding ethics ideology politics power race gender and representation but always in terms of how they arise out of or are involved in the reading of specific documentaries as particular textual constructions By closely reading documentaries as rich visual works this anthology fills a void in the critical writing on documentaries which tends to privilege production over aesthetic pleasure As we increasingly perceive and comprehend the world through visual media understanding the textual strategies by which individual documentaries are organized has become critically important Documenting the Documentary offers clear serious and insightful analyses of documentary films and is a welcome balance between theory and criticism abstract conceptualization and concrete analysis

The Act of Documenting Brian Winston, Gail Vanstone, Wang Chi, 2017-01-26 Documentary has never attracted such audiences never been produced with such ease from so many corners of the globe never embraced such variety of expression The very distinctions between the filmed the filmer and the spectator are being dissolved The Act of Documenting addresses what this means for documentary s 21st century position as a genus in the class cinema for its foundations as primarily a scientific eurocentric and patriarchal discourse for its future in a world where assumptions of photographic image integrity cannot be sustained Unpacked are distinctions between performance and performativity and between different levels of interaction linearity and hypertextuality engagement and impact ethics and conditions of reception Winston Vanstone and Wang Chi explore and celebrate documentary s potentials in the digital age

Documenting Spain: Artists, Exhibition Culture, and the Modern Nation, 1929-1939 , The news media have given us potent demonstrations of the ambiguity of ostensibly truthful representations of public events Jordana Mendelson uses this ambiguity as a framework for the study of Spanish visual culture from 1929 to 1939 a decade marked on the one hand by dictatorship civil war and Franco s rise to power and on the other by a surge in the production of documentaries of various types from films and photographs to international exhibitions Mendelson begins with an examination of El Pueblo Espa ol a model Spanish village featured at the 1929 International Exposition in Barcelona She then discusses Bu uel s and Dal s documentary films relating them not only to French Surrealism but also to issues of rural tradition in the formation of regional and national identities Her highly original book concludes with a discussion of the 1937 Spanish Pavilion where Picasso s famed painting of the Fascist bombing of a Basque town Guernica was exhibited along with monumental photomurals by Josep Renau Based upon years of archival research Mendelson s book opens a new perspective on the cultural politics of a turbulent era in modern Spain It explores the little known yet rich intersection between avant garde artists and government institutions It shows as well the surprising extent to which Spanish modernity was fashioned through dialogue between the seemingly opposed fields of urban and rural fine art and mass culture The Oxford Handbook of American Documentary Joshua Glick, Visiting Associate Professor of Film & Electronic Arts Joshua Glick, Patricia Aufderheide, University Professor in the School of Communication Patricia Aufderheide, 2025 Joshua Glick and Patricia Aufderheide Over the past twenty years documentaries have taken on an increasingly central place in American public life One measure of their importance is their commercial value Major media companies have moved aggressively to monetize documentary exploiting the form's relatively low budgets compared to fiction Women and Documentary Film in Contemporary Iran Najmeh Moradiyan-Rizi, 2025-04-30 By merging three interdisciplinary areas of documentary film studies women's and gender studies and Iranian studies this book looks at how Iranian women documentarians have engaged with gender politics and sociocultural and technological changes since the late 1990s to produce a dynamic new range of documentary modes in regard to production financing distribution and exhibition as well as forms and themes In mapping out the politics and aesthetics of women's independent documentary film practices in contemporary Iran Women and Documentary Film in Contemporary Iran Reframing Reality delineates how women documentarians have incorporated the unique possibilities offered by the documentary medium to perform their agency subjectivity and creativity and how the medium of documentary itself has served as a much needed document of and advocate for Iranian women's issues

Holocaust Representations in Animated Documentaries Liat Steir-Livny, 2023-09-04 Animated documentaries dealing with the Holocaust Holocaust survivors and their descendants constitute a new phenomenon and inaugurate a new field of Holocaust commemoration This book is the first comprehensive analysis of animated Holocaust documentaries It explores movies produced in the USA Canada Australia Europe and Israel Based on theories developed in the fields of animated documentary Holocaust studies cinema studies trauma studies and memory studies this volume discusses the ways in which animated Holocaust documentaries create a new layer of Holocaust microhistory their advantages and their disadvantages It shows how these movies visualize subject matter that previously eluded live action documentaries such as the unfiled past and people's inner worlds The book shows that Holocaust animated documentaries also have specific shortcomings and have generated a new set of problems relating to Holocaust memory and representation For example the vast majority marginalize the horrors and instead focus on bravery resilience and hope Book Review Index, 2003 Vols 8 10 of the 1965 1984 master cumulation constitute a title index Doing Documentary, Becoming Subjects Adam Vaughan, 2025-07-31 Doing Documentary Becoming Subjects explores a range of contemporary nonfiction films including autobiography essay film and animated documentary to understand how these films depict identities being constructed altered and performed By applying concepts such as performativity and Deleuze and Guattari's metaphysics this book aims to show how the self in documentary is in constant states of becoming at the same time as the films are themselves brought into existence
