Career Handbook National Occupational Classification:

National Occupational Classification, 1996 Career Handbook, 2003-01 The revised 2003 edition gives occupational codes and descriptions for the NOC system of use to career counsellors and labour market researchers With some classifications merged and others added the number of occupations has increased from 897 in 1996 to 923 in 2001 with new occupations mostly in information technology Some definitions have been refined and the classification system has changed to improve statistics gathering Includes a CD ROM Also available in French Qualitative Research on the National Occupational Classification and Career Handbook : Final Report Sage Research Corporation, Canada. Human Resources and Skills Development Canada, 2004 National Occupational Classification and Career Handbook. 1996 Canada. Human Resources Development Canada. Occupational and Career Information Branch, 1996 Career Handbook Canada. Human Resources Development Canada, 1996 The purpose of this handbook is to provide useful reliable and accessible information about occupations to counsellors and their clients The handbook is arranged according to the National Occupational Classification and contains information about occupations in 897 distinct groups Each group is presented in the form of an occupational profile that provides a holistic picture of the occupation with certain elements emphasized for counsellor interpretation Each group is displayed on two facing pages with standardized sections including occupation codes descriptor profile prominent aptitudinal interest and worker function elements of the occupation examples of job titles employment requirements typical workplaces or employers occupational options such as mobility similar occupations classified elsewhere and comments Handbook of Medical Aspects of Disability and Rehabilitation for Life Care Planning Virgil May III, Richard Bowman, Steven Barna, 2024-05-21 This textbook is an essential resource for life care planners in understanding and assessing a range of medical disabilities life care planning as a health care service delivery practice certification under the International Commission on Health Care Certification and the path to rehabilitation for mild to catastrophic injuries Written by a team composed of expert physicians and doctoral level practitioners the book covers the key areas of traumatic injury and resultant disability that life care planners so often face From acquired brain injury and spinal disorders to amputation chronic pain posttraumatic debilitating headaches and plastic reconstructive surgery the book provides a road map not only to the treatment options available but also the strategies that can lead to rehabilitation and a possible return to work Each chapter also discusses possible complications allowing a holistic perspective on each issue Also including chapters on medical cost projection analysis and functional capacity evaluation this is the complete text for both professionals in the fields of rehabilitation services and life care planning as well as students training to qualify Formal Occupational Barriers Jo-Ann Sobkow, Canada. Human Resources and Skills Development Canada. Labour Market Policy Directorate, 2001 This report first reviews the literature on the occupational barriers facing immigrants to Canada and on occupational regulation in Canada It then presents a comprehensive summary of the institutional formal occupational barriers for all of the skilled occupations in the National Occupational Classification It identifies all the types of regulation that exist in the provinces territories how this regulation is implemented applied in practice how the occupations are defined and the effectiveness of regulation

Occupational Outlook Handbook, 1990 Describes 250 occupations which cover approximately 107 million jobs Clasificación Nacional de Profesiones Canada. Human Resources Development Canada, 1999 The National Occupational Classification NOC is a system for describing the occupations of Canadians It gives statisticians labour market analysts career counsellors and individual job seekers a standardized way of describing and understanding the nature of work This guide provides an overview of the NOC system for all types of users

Building Effective Employment Programs for Unemployed Youth in the Middle East and North Africa Diego F. Angel-Urdinola, 2013-07-17 Given the labor market challenges that countries in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region are facing notably high unemployment prevalence of skills mismatches low labor market mobility and lack of formal employment networks employment services could be a relevant policy instrument to assist unemployed individuals to find jobs Despite high and increasing unemployment rates employers in the region are facing difficulties to find workers whose competences and skills fit their employment needs The study first surveys international best practices for the delivery of employment services and then reviews the provision of these services in a selected group of countries in the MENA region with a focus on public provision through existing public employment agencies Findings indicate public agencies in the region face many challenges for the effective delivery of employment programs namely poor administrative capacity system fragmentation lack of governance and accountability regulation bottlenecks and flaws in program design In order to help unemployed workers to obtain the competences required by available jobs this study proposes a reform agenda based on the development of strong partnerships between public agencies public providers and employers for the design and implementation of flexible employment programs that respond to real employment needs These partnershipss will need to be developed with strong governance mechanisms that make beneficiaries private providers and firms accountable for making sure that investments in employment programs lead to employment insertion The book is directed to policy makers practitioners economists and anyone interested in international best practices to promote a more effective delivery of employment services
