Battle Of The Java Sea:

The Battle of the Java Sea David Arthur Thomas, 1969 The forlorn battle as Churchill called it was a desperate attempt to defend South East Asia against the Japanese This book is the first full account of one of the major naval campaigns of the Second World War

Battle of the Java Sea David Arthur Thomas, 1971-01-01 Java Sea 1942 Mark Stille, 2019-11-28 A highly illustrated study of the battle of the Java Sea a key Japanese victory in their advance throughout Southeast Asia The battle of the Java Sea fought in February 1942 was the first major surface engagement of the Pacific War and one of the few naval battles of the entire war fought to a decisive victory It was the culminating point of the Japanese drive to occupy the Netherlands East Indies NEI and to defend the territory the Allies assembled a striking force comprised of Dutch American British and even an Australian ship all under the command of a resolute Dutch admiral On 27 February 1942 the Allied striking force set course to intercept the Japanese invasion force in the Java Sea In one of the few such times during the whole of World War II a protracted surface engagement was fought unmolested by airpower For over seven hours the Allied force attempted to attack the Japanese invasion force finally breaking off in the early evening Some three hours later the Allied force now reduced to just four remaining cruisers and two destroyers attempted another attack on the invasion convoy during which Japanese torpedoes scored heavily sinking two Dutch cruisers and bringing the battle to a conclusion Over the next two days as the Allies attempted to flee five more ships were sunk From that point on Allied naval power was eliminated from Southeast Asia In this illustrated title Mark Stille tells the full story of the battle of the Java Sea explaining how and why the Japanese achieved such a resounding victory and delving into the tremendous impact of the battle on the course of the Pacific War

The Battle of the Java Sea F. C. van Oosten, 1976 Battle of the Java Sea Arthur Williams, The naval battle that would unfold in the waters off the Dutch East Indies in late February 1942 represented the climactic confrontation between Allied naval forces attempting to defend the resource rich Indonesian archipelago and the rapidly advancing Japanese fleet that had already achieved stunning victories across the Pacific The Battle of the Java Sea would prove to be one of the most significant and tragic naval engagements of the early Pacific War marking the effective end of Allied naval resistance in Southeast Asian waters and opening the way for complete Japanese control over the region's vital oil and rubber resources The strategic context that led to the Java Sea confrontation had been developing since the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in December 1941 which had initiated a carefully coordinated campaign to seize control of Southeast Asia and the southwestern Pacific The Japanese strategy known as the Southern Operation aimed to capture the resource rich territories of the Dutch East Indies British Malaya and the Philippines while establishing a defensive perimeter that could protect Japan's expanded empire from Allied counterattack The rapid success of Japanese forces in capturing Hong Kong advancing through Malaya toward Singapore and landing in the Philippines had demonstrated both the effectiveness of Japanese military planning and the vulnerability of Allied defensive positions throughout the region The American British

Dutch Australian Command hastily established in January 1942 under the leadership of British General Sir Archibald Wavell represented an ambitious attempt to coordinate Allied resistance against the Japanese advance despite the enormous challenges posed by geographic distances communication difficulties and conflicting national priorities The ABDACOM structure reflected the desperate nature of Allied efforts to defend Southeast Asia with limited resources while also highlighting the complex political and military relationships that would complicate effective coordination during the critical battles that lay ahead

Battle of the Java Sea Admiralty. Naval Staff. Tactical, Torpedo and Staff Duties Division (Historical Section),1945 Battle Summary ,1945 Battle of the Java Sea, 27th February 1942 Great Britain. Naval Staff. Historical Section,1944 Battle of the Java Sea David A. Thomas,1956 Battle of the Java Sea, 27th Feb. 1942 John Augustine Collins,1948 Rising Sun, Falling Skies Jeffrey Cox,2014-03-20 Author Jeffrey Cox conducts a thorough and compelling investigation of the Java Sea Campaign the first major sea battle of the Pacific War which inflicted huge costs on the Allies and set the stage for Japan s rout across the Pacific and Indian oceans Few events have ever shaken a country in the way that the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor affected the United States The Japanese forces then continued to overwhelm the Allies attacking Malaya with its fortress of Singapore and taking resource rich islands in the Pacific in their own blitzkrieg offensive Allied losses in these early months after America s entry into the war were great and among the most devastating were those suffered during the Java Sea Campaign where a small group of Americans British Dutch and Australians were isolated in the Far East directly in the path of the Japanese onslaught It would be the first major sea battle of World War II in the Pacific Other Views of Naval Battles Gatot Soedarto,2014-08-01 Was the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor a failure What caused the defeat of Allies fleet in the Battle of Java Sea What caused the defeat of Japanese fleet in the Battle of Midway This book try to find the answer The battle in Coral Sea was a very specific sea war because for the first time in history of sea war a task force of carrier ships confronted with another task force of carrier ships In the Coral Sea battle it was quite obvious that the sea state and bad weather gave a lot of influence to the morality and nuance of both sides in war Under such a chaotic doubtful condition and each not knowing exactly the results of their attacks both sides tried to mutually flee away to save their remaining power Battle of the Java Sea, 27th February, 1942 J. A. Collins,Great Britain. War Office,1948 The Java Sea Campaign ,1943 Reprint of a 1943 publication by the Office of Naval Intelligence concerning the early World War II battles in the Java Sea Intelligence Operations at the Battle of the Java Sea Elliot Coley,2009-10-01 Battle of the Java Sea, 27th February 1942. Despatch Submitted to the Commandes in Chief, Eastern Fleet on the 17th March, 1942 J. A. Collins,19?? Battle of the Java Sea. [With Plates.]. David Arthur THOMAS (Naval Historian.),1968 The Java Sea Campaign Office of Naval Intelligence United States Navy,2013-01-20 The Java Sea Campaign is the story of the Japanese conquest of the Netherlands East Indies Strictly speaking the history of the United States Navy s participation in that campaign should begin with the arrival of our Asiatic Fleet in the Indies and the beginning of our active cooperation with the British and Dutch It is difficult however to set a definite date for such a beginning Several of our ships were sent into the East Indies in the latter part of November 1941 and various units of our fleet followed at intervals all through December Moreover the conquest of the Indies by the Japanese was merely the culmination of a single carefully planned campaign which opened with their attack on the Philippines and Malaya Their advance into the Dutch possessions was carefully coordinated with and dependent upon their successes in these other theatres While our defense of the Philippines is the subject of a separate narrative in preparation some reference must be made to events there to explain the situation at the opening of the Java Sea Campaign ORGANIZATION AND DISPOSITION OF OUR FLEET The United States Asiatic Fleet was something less than its title suggested

International Law of Underwater Cultural Heritage
Kim Browne, Murray Raff, 2023-01-01 This book brings together three distinct areas of International Law namely Environmental Heritage and Ocean Law to address the international legal protection of historically significant wrecks with particular focus on the environmental hazards they may pose The confluence of Heritage Law and the Law of the Sea with International Environmental Law represents an important development in international governance strategies for the twenty first century in particular those legal and administrative regimes that concern the world s oceans and underwater cultural heritage protection Importantly connections between international legal regimes such as the 1982 Law of the Sea and institutions like the International Maritime Organisation IMO and United Nations Education Scientific Cultural Organisation UNESCO can play a crucial part in governance strategies that involve the regulation of marine pollution and historic shipwrecks

The Allied Defense of the Malay Barrier, 1941-1942 Tom Womack, 2015-12-15 Though few realize it the Netherlands East Indies were the object of Japan s attack on Pearl Harbor in December 1941 Likewise their invasions of Guam Wake Island and the Philippines were mainly diversionary operations to safeguard their main assault on Dutch and British colonies Since the end of World War I Japan had coveted the vast East Indies oil reserves and the colony had feared invasion since Germany overran Holland in May 1940 Isolated politically the weakly defended archipelago was a tempting prize The East Indies government initially maintained a strict policy of neutrality while desperately working to build up its military strength As Japanese actions pushed the region toward war the Dutch reluctantly embraced closer ties with America and Britain For a brief period the East Indies were key players in Pacific War strategy This book details for the first time in English the Dutch prewar strategy their efforts to counter Japanese espionage and their sizable though largely forgotten military contribution in the early months of the Pacific War
