Doing Visual Ethnography:

Doing Visual Ethnography Sarah Pink, 2001-05 This text explores the use and potential of photography video and electronic media in ethnographic and social research The book has a reflexive approach to the theoretical methodological practical and ethical issues for using media

Doing Visual Ethnography Sarah Pink, 2006-11-15 Those already proficient in ethnographic methods will find Doing Visual Ethnography a foray into what should be an increasingly normative terrain and what is certainly a much needed addition to the literature They will be challenged to simultaneously take on new methodological conceits and their application beyond traditional boundaries Library Information Science Research Following on from the success of Doing Visual Ethnography this fully revised and updated second edition explores the use and potential of photography video and hypermedia in ethnographic and social research It offers a reflexive approach to theoretical methodological practical and ethical issues of using these media now that they are increasingly being incorporated into field research Sarah Pink adopts the viewpoint that visual research methods should be rooted in a critical understanding of local and academic visual cultures the visual media and technologies being used and the ethical issues they raise The book demonstrates that these new challenges that shape ethnographic knowledge can be met by understanding the reflexivity and experience through which visual and ethnographic materials are produced and interpreted New to the Second Edition General updating of figures terminology and literature to bring the book up to date with recent innovations in theory practice and technology Annotated reading lists added to each chapter to guide the reader to further literature Completely rewritten chapter on digital technology to ensure the text is in line with the latest developments in technology and methodological thinking Drawing from her own experiences of using photography video and hypermedia in research as well as the work of others the author follows the research process from project design planning and implementing and practising fieldwork to analysis and representation suggesting how visual images and technologies can be combined to form an integrated process throughout the different stages of research The Second Edition of Doing Visual Ethnography is an excellent resource for students of sociology anthropology cultural studies media studies and those doing ethnographic and qualitative research It also provides valuable reading for researchers and postgraduates

Doing Visual Ethnography Sarah Pink, 2007

Doing Sensory Ethnography Sarah Pink, 2009-08-05 In this important and groundbreaking book Sarah Pink suggests rethinking the ethnographic process through reflexive attention to what she terms the sensoriality of the experience practice and knowledge of both researchers and those who participate in their research The book provides an accessible analysis of the theoretical methodological and practical aspects of doing sensory ethnography drawing on examples and case studies from the growing literature on sensory ethnographic studies and from the author's own work

Methodological Innovations in Research and Academic Writing Zimmerman, Aaron Samuel, 2021-10-08 Innovative methodological approaches are vital for experienced researchers and early career researchers alike to conduct research In order to provide them with the best possible resources the methodologies must be comprehensive and describe the data sources approaches to data collection and approaches to data analysis that are typically employed within the given methodological approach Methodological Innovations in Research and Academic Writing serves as a resource for graduate students and higher education faculty and presents a number of methodological innovations in research as well as applied examples of these methodologies in practice The chapters focus on the application of methodological approaches through the presentation of real world examples and descriptions of the epistemological foundations of the given methodologies so that researchers can fully articulate and justify their methodological choices in the context of their research design It is a crucial guide for graduate students who are designing and writing their doctoral dissertations as it introduces them to the best practices related to rigorous research design and academic writing This book is ideal for graduate students higher education faculty researchers and academicians

Visual Ethnography Dawn Mannay, Janet Fink, Helen Lomax, 2020 Visual ethnography refers to the study of the social world where drawing photography film and digital techniques are commonly used to record aspects of everyday life alongside the interrogation of visual culture This entry provides a background to the field of visual ethnography and reflects on both its historical applications across different disciplines and its contemporary uses as an approach to social research methods The entry asks How do researchers collect and generate visual data In answering this question it focuses on how researchers do a visual ethnographic study setting out different approaches to and techniques of creating visual data including assemblages of photographs collections of artefacts and the participatory techniques of film mapping and collage The second question How do researchers analyse visual materials leads to a discussion of how researchers come to know the visual artefact itself and the social contexts in which images are made and viewed offering visual ethnographers new opportunities to understand social practices and relationships as they are articulated through the visual Lastly the entry turns to issues of dissemination and attends to the challenge How do researchers negotiate ethics visibility and representation In response a number of approaches are presented as ways to ethically present and re represent visual data to engage audiences and generate impact The entry notes that visual ethnography has much to offer the field of social research but that it is important that researchers continue to work on developing its methodological analytical and ethical agendas for the future The entry provides a foundation for gaining an understanding of visual ethnography and a basis for engaging with this project of development offering strategies for negotiating best practice in fieldwork analysis and visual audiencing

Visual Interventions Sarah Pink, 2007 Visual anthropology has proved to offer fruitful methods of research and representation to applied projects of social intervention This volume examines both the range contexts in which applied visual anthropology is engaged and the methodological and theoretical issues it raises Dance with Me Julia A. Ericksen, 2011 Click here to listen to Julia Ericksen s interview about Dance with Me on Philadelphia NPR s Radio Times Rumba music starts and a floor full of dancers alternate clinging to one another and turning away Rumba is an erotic dance and the mood is hot and heavy the women bend and hyperextend their legs as they twist and turn around their partners Amateur and professional ballroom dancers alike compete in a highly gendered display of intimacy romance and sexual passion In Dance With Me Julia Ericksen a competitive ballroom dancer herself takes the reader onto the competition floor and into the lights and the glamour of a world of tanned bodies and glittering attire exploring the allure of this hyper competitive difficult and often expensive activity In a vivid ethnography accompanied by beautiful photographs of all levels of dancers from the world s top competitors to social dancers Ericksen examines the ways emotional labor is used to create intimacy between professional partners and between professionals and their students illustrating how dancers purchase intimacy She shows that while at first glance ballroom presents a highly gendered face with men leading and women following dancing also transgresses gender Researching City Life Tyler Schafer, Michael Ian Borer, 2023-03-17

Researching City Life An Urban Field Methods Text Reader examines the city from a street level perspective and provides readers with tools to conduct research on urbanism the everyday experiences of people in cities Contending that culture is central to understanding urbanism editors Tyler Schafer and Michael Ian Borer address qualitative research in cities and how it provides insights unable to be captured via quantitative methods Carefully selected and edited readings cover participant observation interviewing narrative analysis visual and sensory methods and methods for re presenting the city Each section includes an introduction from the editors a Reflection Essay from one of the authors and exercises that prompt hands on experience Cycling and Motorcycling Tourism Anna Scuttari, 2019-06-01 This book explores the understanding description and measurement of the physical sensory social and emotional features of motorcycle and bicycle journey experiences in tourism Novel insights are presented from an original case study of these forms of tourism in the Sella Pass a panoramic road close to the Dolomites UNESCO World Heritage Site A comprehensive mixed methods strategy was employed for this research with concurrent use of quantitative and qualitative methods including documentation and secondary data analysis mobile video ethnography and emotion measurement The aim was to create a holistic knowledge of the features of journey experiences and a new definition of the mobility space as a perceptual space The book is significant in that it is among the first studies to explore the concept of journey experiences and to develop an interdisciplinary theoretical foundation of mobility spaces It offers a comprehensive understanding and a benchmarking of the features of motorcycling and cycling journey experiences a deeper market knowledge on motorcycling and cycling tourists and a set of tools techniques and recommendations for future research on tourist experiences Seeing South Asia Dev Nath

Ethnologia
Europaea Journal of European Ethnology Tom O'Dell, Robert Willim, 2012-03-26 Ethnography has become something of a buzzword in recent years It is talked about and invoked in disciplines ranging from anthropology and ethnology to literature history business administration and design studies Textbooks that teach ethnography tend to imbue students with the impression that ethnography is a mode of systematic investigation by which the researcher gets closer to the realities of people's everyday lives But how straightforward are these processes in reality As ethnography spreads into new folds of research both within and without the academy the contributions in this volume demonstrate the manner in which field methods are adjusting transforming or taking new forms altogether If textbooks might lead students to believe that observations and interviews are the grounds upon which good ethnography can regularly be produced the authors in this volume take as their point of departure the realisation that ethnography is being used in a multitude of different contexts which forces them and us as readers to question the regularities and irregularities of their own work

Visual Sociology
Diana Papademas, 2002

Embracing the Melody of Phrase: An Psychological Symphony within Doing Visual Ethnography

In some sort of eaten by displays and the ceaseless chatter of immediate conversation, the melodic splendor and mental symphony created by the prepared word usually disappear in to the backdrop, eclipsed by the constant sound and disturbances that permeate our lives. Nevertheless, nestled within the pages of Doing Visual Ethnography a charming fictional treasure overflowing with fresh emotions, lies an immersive symphony waiting to be embraced. Constructed by a wonderful musician of language, that fascinating masterpiece conducts visitors on a mental journey, skillfully unraveling the hidden melodies and profound impact resonating within each cautiously constructed phrase. Within the depths of this poignant evaluation, we shall explore the book is main harmonies, analyze its enthralling writing design, and submit ourselves to the profound resonance that echoes in the depths of readers souls.
